

The HATMAKER'S SIGN

Where there is no guidance,
a people falls, but in an abundance of counselors
there is safety.

Homework: The Hatmaker's Sign Homework #2

While writing The Declaration of Independence, Thomas Jefferson wrote his first sentence. But then he proved it! He not only said they believed all men were created equal, with the right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness – he then went on to say he reasons why and why they weren't being treated with those rights!

Rewrite the sentence you wrote last week as your beginning, then add 2-4 more sentences to help prove your point. Do you think everyone should eat chocolate? Tell us WHY.

Try to find and include 1 source to strengthen your argument. Are there any other people or resources that agree with you? You can use a book, a famous source on the internet, or just quote another person like mom or dad. (for example: Even The Chocolate Journal says one ounce of chocolate each day will give you a healthy heart!)

Don't forget to read, read out loud, ask for help, and reread again, until you have it just the way you want it.

We hold these truths

to be self-evident,

THAT ALL MEN are created

EQUAL,

that they are endowed by their Creator

with certain

Unalienable Rights,

that among these are

LIFE, LIBERTY

and the pursuit of HAPPINESS.
